

PDST  Y E O T Y
Young Economist Of The Year

The Young Economist of the Year (YEOTY) is a national award structure for post-primary students to promote the enjoyment of economics as a leading 21st century discipline. YEOTY is an initiative of the Professional Development Service for Teachers (PDST) in association with the Irish Economics Association (IEA), University College Dublin, Maynooth University, NUI Galway, Trinity College Dublin, University College Cork, University of Limerick, Munster Technological University, The Central Bank of Ireland, The Irish Economic and Evaluation Service (IGEES), The Economics and Social Research Institute (ESRI), Department of the Environment, Climate and Communications (DECC), Business Studies Teachers' Association of Ireland (BSTAI), Technological University Dublin, The Oireachtas Library & Research Service and Laois Education Support Centre.

PDST Young Economist of the Year is approved and funded by the Teacher Education Section (TES), Department of Education.

The purpose of this live webinar is to support teachers when guiding students through the process of inquiry around this years YEOTY theme - Creating our Future: The Role of Economics in a Sustainable World

You are cordially invited to book your place at the professional development event for teachers at our live webinar on Thursday, 18 November 2021 from 7:00 p.m - 8:30 p.m

Webinar overview and contributors

| | | |
|-------------------|---------------------------------|--|
| Cian Sweeney | PDST Economics Team | Welcome & Introductions |
| Dr Bruno Morando | Maynooth University | Developing Creative Lines of Inquiry with a Sound Economic Focus |
| Dr Kevin Denny | UCD School of Economics | Advice from the Judging panel |
| Shane Kirwan | PDST Economics Team | Supporting Students in Working with Data |
| Darren Lawlor | The Oireachtas Research Service | Data Visualisation Journey |
| Dr Rachel Farrell | UCD School of Education | Update on Resources |

Questions and Answers Session with Panelists

Registered participants will receive a link to access the event prior to the commencement date.

To register a place at this pdst online event, please log on to www.pdst.ie/onlinebooking

For further details email estherherlihy@pdst.ie